

YOGIC CLEANSING PRACTICES ~ AUTUMN 2010

SATURDAY 2nd OCTOBER

9a.m. START

LAGHOO SHANKAPRAKSHALANA, KUNJAL and NETI

- ☺ Neti is a salt-water irrigation of the nasal passages, requiring the use of a purpose made pot called a neti lota. It is an excellent practice for the management of hay fever, sinus disorders, catarrh, headaches, depression, anxiety and many other disorders.
- ☺ Kunjai is a salt-water stomach wash, done on an empty stomach and therefore not at all unpleasant. It is especially valuable for people who experience hyperacidity of the stomach, asthma or other respiratory difficulties; or migraine. It is also good for raising energy levels. IT IS PRACTICED ON A COMPLETELY EMPTY STOMACH.
- ☺ Laghoo Shankaparakshalana is a short cleansing for the digestive system and is particularly valuable for anyone whose digestive system is a bit sluggish. It involves drinking salt water and the practice of particular postures to assist the movement of the water through the system. IT IS PRACTICED ON A COMPLETELY EMPTY STOMACH. It is followed by Kunjal (if appropriate) and Neti, which are included in the price.

These practices can be learned together, on the same morning, or you may prefer to learn just one of them.

These practices will be taught in small groups by Amarajyoti at: St Timothy's Church Hall & Community Centre, Swinburn Way, off Byron St, Daybrook NG5 6BX – 0115 9206397. If you need directions send SAE or email address.

Places are limited so please book early. Cost for Laghoo - £22.00. (This includes kunjai and neti). Cost for neti and or kunjai is £15.00. (One, or both together). Neti lotas can be purchased on the day. You may wish to make sure you have cooking salt in your store cupboard for home practice. Bring your toothbrush and paste for lagoo & kunjai.
